

Closing Entries

by Cshortla via cheatography.com/32889/cs/10242/

Closing Process

Must do at the end of the accounting period after financial statements have been completed. It prepares accounts for next accounting period. The purpose is to

- 1. Reset Revenue, expenses, and dividend accounts back to zero for the end of the accounting period.
- 2. Helps summarize the revenues and expenses for that period.

Steps for Closing

- 1. Identify what accounts need to be closed
- 2. Record and post the entries to be closed
- 3. Prepare the post-closing trial balance

Temporary/ Permanent accounts
Temporary	Permanent
Revenues	Assets
Expenses	Liabilities
Dividends	Common Stock
Income Summary	Retained Earnings
(The closing process applies only to these accounts)	(These accounts carry ending balances to the next period)

Recording Closing Entries

Income Summary

Is a temporary account (used for CLOSING). The balance equals net income(loss) and it goes to the retained earnings.

Dividends goes to retained earnings.

Expense Accounts Deproclation Expense - Equip Balance 3:00 Sugglete Expense Balance 1:00 Sugglete Expense Balance 3:05 Sugglete Expense

Recording Closing Entries

Revenues

- 1. They have a debit balance
- 2. Close to income summary, it has a credit balance.

Expenses

- 1. Close to income summary, it has a debit balance
- 2. All expenses are going to have a credit balance

Close income summary to retained earnings

- 1. Income Summary has a debit balance
- 2. Retained Earnings has a credit balance

Close dividends account

- 1. Retained Earnings is going to have a debit balance
- 2. Dividends has a credit balance

Accounting Cycle 1. Analyze transactions 1. Analyze t

By Cshortla

cheatography.com/cshortla/

Published 16th December, 2016. Last updated 16th December, 2016. Page 1 of 1. Sponsored by CrosswordCheats.com
Learn to solve cryptic crosswords!
http://crosswordcheats.com