Spirit	thoughts, awareness, emotions, capacity to interact
Body + Spirit	Embodied Spirit

Three views of the human composition

1. Unspirited Body View
2. Disembodied Spirit View
3. Embodied Spirit View

Unspirited Body

the person is just his/her body and nothing more. There is no soul, the body acts according to the biological processes and the patterns of behavior.

Disembodied Spirit

the man is composed of body and soul. the body and soul are separate. The body cannot survive without the soul while the soul is immortal.
Plato has this kind of view. The nature of the human person is seen as the metaphysical dichotomy between the body and the soul
Dichotomy- it is the contradiction between the body and the soul

Plato's View

He is a dualist, immaterial mind and material body.
Souls exist before birth and after death
The world of forms is where the soul stays after the death of the body

Division of the Soul

Reason
Appetite
Will

Three Parts of the Soul

Appetitive Soul	Physical urges of the body. Thirst, hunger, and other physical wants
Spiritual Soul	gives the human person motivation to do things, drives the emotion of a person
Rational Soul	the seat of the mind and responsible for thinking, comprehend, reflect etc.

Embodied Spirit (Aristotle)

there is no dichotomy between the soul and the body Greek word psyche means soul or the principle of life.
The soul causes the body to live and the body is the form of the soul

3 levels of Soul

Vegetative Soul	grow, reproduce and feed itself
Sensitive Soul	grow, reproduce, feed and capable of sensation
Rational Soul	grow, reproduce, feed, can sense and think

Qualities of an Embodied Spirit

Self-awareness	Interiority, a clear perception of oneself including thoughts, emotions, identity and actions
Self-determination	the ability to choose own decisions and make their own choices
Externality	interaction with other human beings, animals or an inanimate object
Dignity	the inherent value of a person and their importance. No amount of money can be equal to the life of a person
