Product Backlog

The goal of the meeting is to take goals and initiatives, to create user stories and identify their requirements.

Sprint Review

The Goal is to present the current sprint to the stakeholders, and get feedback and validation for releasing the sprint's work.

Sprint Planning

The goal of sprint planning, is to choose from the product backlog the user stories with the highest business values. Explain them to the development team, and score the effort of implementations.

Mornings

Goal is to explain what you worked on yesterday, what you are about to work on today, and specify if you are blocked on any task.
