

Theory / Explanation

ID9.2A – Who am I?

Identity is what makes you you. It includes your name, culture, language, gender, personality, beliefs, and more. Identity is fluid — it can change over time as we grow and explore who we are.

ID9.2B – Humankind: All Equal; All Different

Even though everyone is different, we all deserve equal respect and rights. Media sometimes shows biased stories that don't treat people fairly. We need to think critically about what we see.

ID9.2C – Challenging Prejudice and Discrimination

Society often has systems that benefit some and harm others — even without realizing it. These ideas are called unquestioned norms (e.g., men should lead, rich = better). Our job is to challenge unfair structures and treat others with empathy, awareness, and an open mind.

Real-Life Study Cases

☐ Case Study 1: Malala Yousafzai's Fight for Education

Malala is a Pakistani girl who spoke out for girls' right to education when the Taliban banned girls from going to school. She was attacked, but survived and became the youngest person to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

☐ Case Study 2: George Floyd and the Black Lives Matter Movement

George Floyd, a Black man in the U.S., died after a police officer knelt on his neck during an arrest. His death sparked protests worldwide against racism and police brutality, leading to the rise of #BlackLivesMatter.

☐ Case Study 3: Greta Thunberg and Youth Activism

Greta, a teen from Sweden with autism, started protesting climate inaction. Many criticized her, but she used her voice to inspire millions of youth to fight for the planet.
