Character Creation

Roll 3d6 for STR (strength), DEX (dexterity), and CHA (charisma)

Roll $1 d 6$ for starting HP (hit protection)

Roll 1d20for starting pennies

It is recommended that you consult the Starter Package table in the ItO rulebook and forming the personality and backstory of your character around those items and features. If you have a specific idea in mind for a character feel free to voice your thoughts to the GM

For groups of 3 players or smaller players can create NPC companions to join their expeditions. Roll their ability scores, give them 1 HP and a hand weapon

10 pennies $=$ round of cheap drinks at a bad bar

100 pennies $=1$ shilling
100 shillings $=1$ guilder
1 guilder = good horse, wagon, valuable jewelery
(House rules for rolling STR, DEX, and WIS can include rolling 4d6 instead of 3 and dropping the lowest die for slightly more heroic characters)

Dicework

Saves, the most common rolls, are rolled to avoid danger in risky situations. Roll 1d20 under or equal to the ability score the GM declares fitting. A 1 is always a success and a 20 is always failure.

Most risks that necessitate a save bypass your HP in damage

| Attributes |  |
| :--- | :--- |
| STR Saves Fighting, fortitude, and  are for: toughness  DEX Saves Grace, athletics, subtlety,  are for: and reflexes  WIL Saves Confidence, mental  are for: sharpness, and charisma |  |

Levels

Upon level advancement, players gain 1d6 HP and roll $1 d 20$ for their Ability Scores. If the $d 20$ roll is higher than their current score, the score increases by 1.

| Logistics |  |
| :--- | :--- |
| Short | Resting for a few minutes and  hydrating recovers all lost HP |
| Full Rest | A week of downtime in a  comfortable location restores all |
|  | Ability Scores |
| Deprived | Someone deprived of a crucial  need (food, water, warmth,  shelter) cannot benefit from |
|  | Rests |

Bulky Items marked as Bulky require two hands or significant storage. If you carry two Bulky items your HP is halved, and at three Bulky items it's at 0

Consequences

Damage When someone takes damage they lose that many HP. After that is all gone you are wounded and damage cuts into your STR score. Once that happens they must make a STR Save to avoid Critical Damage
Critical If you take critical damage you Damage are so wounded you cannot take further action until tended to by a friend and taking a short rest afterwards. After an hour of being left untended you die

Consequences (cont)

The If your STR Score is at 0, you are End dead. If your DEX Score is at 0, you are paralyzed. If your WIL Score is at 0 , you are catatonic (House Rules: Paralyzed characters can recover after $1 d 6$ months and catatonic characters can recover after 1d12+1 months.) Once your character dies, roll a new character or take control of an NPC. Player's choice.

Battle

Reactions: When encountering another being, the characters making first contact must pas a WIL save in order to avoid an unfavorable first reaction from the newcomer(s)
Turns: The player characters always go before the enemy in combat unless they are surprised, in which cast they must each make a DEX save in order to act before the enemy

Actions: The players can perform an action and move on their turn. The GM can determine whether the action requires a Save to be made. A common choice in battle is attacking...

Attacks: There is no rolling to hit, as attacks are simply dealing damage to your target. Roll the die dictated by your weapon and subtract from that the enemy's Armor score. That's the damage

Morale: NPCs will need to make a WIL save to avoid being routed when they lose half their numbers. In organized groups only the leader makes this save, and if not then each NPC rolls individually
