!□!□ように can be used with negative sentences, but not ために。のように expresses aims by describing ideal situations. Since it represents a state, “can speak (話せる potential-form)” is used instead of the action “speak (話す)” for example.

!□!□Dont's: When ように is used instead of ために:

1. Cannot be used when there are two subjects.
2. Cannot be used with negation. Use (V-ない ように instead)

V-てから/V-たあとで/V-上で "After doing"

❖V-てから "Right after doing..."

-Gives more emphasis that the second action NEEDS to be done after the other action.
There is no special relation between the two verbs

卒業したてから、日本に来た。

I came to Japan after graduation.

❖V-たあとで "After doing"

-Only expressing the order. Simply indicates the order of 2 actions without any emphasis. It doesn't matter how long it takes from first action to next action.

卒業したあとで、日本に来た。

I came to Japan after graduation.

❖V-【上で】うえで "After doing"

-First verb is properly done in preparation for the second verb so there is a special relationship between the two verbs.
