

Passive Form Uses 【敬語】 けいご

✓ Used to express your feelings (like you are a victim) towards someone/else's action (upset, happy, embarrassed, etc.) or you're trying to think from the victim's POV. This is an indirect passive wherein someone does something to a person causing that person to be unhappy.	(Subject/-Victim) は (Doer) に (Passive Verb)	Transitive: あいつに笑られた。"He laughed at me!" (and I'm upset) Intransitive: 昨日雨の降られた。"I got rained on yesterday"
✓ Used to speak from the speaker's perspective / to keep the subject "I". (He told me → I was told by him)	(Subject/-Victim) は (Doer) に (Passive Verb)	【彼氏】かれしに【振る】ふられた。My bf dumped me (and I'm not happy).
-The direct object is now the topic and the focus of the sentence which will take は/が
✓ Used when emphasis is on the direct object		寿司を田中さんに作られた。The sushi was made by Tanaka.
✓ Doer is not important or unknown (eg. reports, news)		1 0 0 万円が盗まれた。1 million yen was stolen.
✓ 2 kinds of Passive:
1) Direct = verb is transitive only		Transitive: あいつに笑られた。"He laughed at me!" (and I'm upset)
2) Indirect = verb can be transitive or intansitive (also known as suffering passive)		Intransitive: 昨日雨の降られた。"I got rained on yesterday"
✓ The passive form in regular sentence construction turns the sentence into honorific.		東京に行かれますか。 "Will you go to Tokyo?"

By (someone/something) to denote the doer is indicated by particles:

✦ に (most commonly used)、

✦ によって、

✦ から

!□!□Note:

Passive Form Uses 【敬語】 けいご (cont)

★ In active voice, the subject is doing the action of the verb.

★ In passive voice, the subject is receiving the action of the verb or being acted upon, and the verb is accompanied by a helping (auxiliary) verb such as is, are, was, were, has, have, been.

★ In passive form, the person in front of the に particle is the one that who did the action.

V - Passive あれる / られる Conjugation

G 1 - う

Change to: あれる

行く → 行かれる

かう → 買われる

話す → 話される

G 2 - いる / える

Change to: られる

-Conjugates the same way as potential form

(ら canNOT be omitted)

食べる → 食べられる

G 3

する : される

くる : こられる

-Use active verbs turned into a passive form

Ex. eat, drink, watch, open, close

-Sometimes, the doer is unknown

-Sometimes, the indirect object is the subject or topic

!□!□Formation:

(Doer) は (Target) に (Object) を (Regular Verb)

(Target) は (Doer) に (Object) を (Passive Verb)

母は私に買い物を頼みました。

My mother asked me to go shopping.

私は母に買い物を頼まれました。

I was asked to go shopping by my mother.

私は犬に【噛む】がまれました。

I was bitten by a dog.

Keeping the subject "I"

★★ Used to speak from the speaker's perspective / to keep the subject "I". (He told me → I was told by him)

Basic:

【彼氏】かれしは私を【振った】ふった。

My bf dumped me. (but there is no nuance that you are upset, it only sounds like you are stating the fact.)

友達に「写真を撮って」と頼んだ。

I asked my friend, "Please take a picture!"

Passive:

【彼氏】かれしに【振る】ふられた。

My bf dumped me (and I'm not happy).

友達に「写真を撮って」と【頼む】たのまれました。

I was asked by my friend, "Please take a picture!"

*

!□!□Note: Although passive form is used when you feel like you're the victim, this grammar can also be used by speaking from your perspective. You can be happy, upset, embarrassed but it always depends on your tone of voice.

(Object) は/を (Doer) に (Passive Verb)

"Noun has been... V"

!□!□Note: In the Passive Form, sometimes there is ambiguity. Context particles are important to distinguish the meaning of the sentence.

は (nothing offensive)

(Object) は <Passive>。

~is <passive (e.g. built / destroyed / made)>

を (offensive)

(Object) を <Passive>。

-Someone did something and I'm upset.

(Object) は/を (Doer) に (Passive Verb) (cont)

-No nuance of the speaker getting offended. Just to sound more formal.

-If there is no need/don't care to mention the doer of the action, we can make the object as the Topic by using the particle は/が。

この家は2009年にたてられた。 This house was built in 2009.

家を立ってらていた。 The house was built (and I'm upset).

ドアは開けられました。 The door was opened (by somebody).

兄にドアを開けられました。 My brother opened the door (and I'm upset).

【窓】まどは田中さんに開けられた。 The window was opened by Tanaka-san.

【窓】まどを田中さんに開けられた。 The window was opened by Tanaka-san (and I'm annoyed).

【次】つぎのオリンピックは東京で【行う】おこなわれます。 The next Olympics is going to be held in Tokyo.

Express feelings (upset, embarrassed)

★★ In Passive Form, you do not need to add any swear words in the sentence as it is already implied by using the passive verb.

Plain Verb	(Subject/Victim) は (Doer) に (Passive Verb)	V-てしまう / ちゃう
Statement	Someone does ~ and the speaker is upset	(Subject) does ~ and regrets
	-Used to express your feelings (like you are a victim) towards someone/else's action (upset, happy, embarrassed, etc.) or you're trying to think from the victim's POV.	-The speaker is regretting/feel guilty of his own action / accidentally or unintentionally
	There is no need to use swear words, you can always convey your emotions by conjugating the verb.	-When you're the speaker and speaks from other people's perspective and thinks that he/she regrets his own action.
	-Used when you're the victim and you're trying to think from the victim's (you are siding) POV	-Express the feeling that it is a shame that it happened "Didn't mean to; not on purpose"

Basic:	Passive:	V-てしまう / ちゃう
見た。 I/She saw it.	見られた! They saw me.	見ちゃった! I saw it! (accidentally; and I regret; OH NO). (Witness)
	(And I'm upset that they saw me.) (Criminal) (DAMN)

Express feelings (upset, embarrassed) (cont)

【裸】はだかを見られた。

Somebody saw me naked (and I'm upset).

あいつは笑った。That guy (He) smiled/laughed. (No nuance of the speaker getting offended.)

あきらに写真を【撮る】とられた。

Akira took a picture of me.

Akira took a picture of me (and I'm not happy). / I was taken a photo of by Akira.

(No nuance of the speaker getting offended.)

!□!□Note: You do not have to add 私 as the passive form already implied that you 9as the subject) are the victim.

私が開けるよ。

開けられる。

I'll open it (for you). (Sometimes in English, we say "I can". But in Japanese, we do not use any forms).

(Can mean 'can open' or 'somebody opened and I'm annoyed' as potential and passive G2 verbs have the same conjugation).

That customer ate so much (and I'm not happy).

話しているのに【後輩】こうはいに寝られた。

Even though/In spite of the fact that I'm talking, my kouhai fell asleep on me. (How annoying!) (Would not use 'while'. のに (eventhough / in spite of) is better)

彼にネタバレされた。

My bf spoiled the story (and I'm upset).

Express feelings (upset, embarrassed) (cont)

彼に【浮気】うわきされた。

My boyfriend cheated on me (and I'm upset).
