Asthma

Asthma is a disease of diffuse airway inflammation caused by a variety of triggering stimuli resulting in partially or completely reversible bronchoconstriction. Symptoms and signs include dyspnea, chest tightness, cough, and wheezing. The diagnosis is based on history, physical examination, and pulmonary function tests. Treatment involves controlling triggering factors and drug therapy, most commonly with inhaled beta-2 agonists and inhaled corticosteroids. Prognosis is good with treatment.

Pathophysiology

By katnata19
cheatography.com/katnata19/

Not published yet.
Last updated 21st May, 2020.

Sponsored by Readable.com
Measure your website readability!
https://readable.com