

Prohibition and permission

Rules are everywhere. Games have rules, sports have rules, schools and workplaces have rules. They help us agree on how to get along and keep things fair. Some rules prohibit things; those things are not allowed—you must not do them. Some rules permit things; those things are allowed—you can do them.

Grammar: Permission vs. prohibition

verb	adjective	noun
permit	permitted	permission
prohibit	prohibited	prohibition

Example: Prohibition vs. permission

Why is it prohibited?

Recording video inside a cinema during a movie
...because: The video might be uploaded to the Internet, and then fewer people would pay to see the movie in theatres

Recording a private conversation without asking permission
...because: The other person might talk about personal, private or secret information that should not be repeated to others

Sharing video of a fight between two students
...because: The video shows violence and may show bad language; it may upset some people; it may have a bad effect on the lives of the two students if the video stays online

Sharing a link to a website with violent or hateful content
...because: The website may encourage violence or hate towards certain people or groups of people; people could be hurt or killed; it may be upsetting to many people

Sharing photos without permission

Why should you always ask for permission before sharing a photo of someone?

Once a photo is posted online, other people can copy and share it easily. They might share it in ways that it wasn't meant to be shared. Imagine a girl who shares a cute photo of herself with someone. Then, imagine that person shares it online to show friends the cute girl they're talking to. Then, imagine those friends share it to a "pretty girls" page where thousands of people comment on how she looks. Then, imagine all of her friends find out...

Sharing personal or private things without asking for permission can ruin someone's life!

Example: Sharing photos without permission

Example: Sharing photos of someone without asking permission

Laws vs. ethics

Laws (adj.: legal) Rules and regulations that have specific consequences and penalties if they are violated (broken). Generally made by institutions, e.g. governments, schools...

Ethics (adj.: ethical) Social guidelines based on moral principles and values that teach us how to be good people. Generally made by people, communities, society...

Examples of laws

Copyright law is a type of law that protects the rights of the person or group that creates something.

Traffic law controls the movement of vehicles on busy city roads.

Criminal law concerns acts that hurt people like stealing from them, injuring them, or killing them.

Germany has a strong anti-hate speech law that prohibits the act of publicly inciting hatred against certain types of people.

By mdsis2049

Published 24th November, 2023.

Last updated 25th November, 2023.

Page 1 of 2.

Sponsored by ApolloPad.com

Everyone has a novel in them. Finish

Yours!

<https://apollopad.com>

Some prohibited activities online

Cyberbullying	Insulting or harrassing other people online, e.g. on social media or in an online chat group.
Posting fake news	Sharing information that is not true, but looks believable.
Posting hate speech	Posting messages that promote or incite hatred towards a person or a group of people.
Plagiarism	Taking something created by someone else and claiming that you created it.
Copyright infringement	Copying or sharing something created by someone else without getting permission to copy or share it.

By mdsis2049

cheatography.com/mdsis2049/

Published 24th November, 2023.

Last updated 25th November, 2023.

Page 2 of 2.

Sponsored by ApolloPad.com

Everyone has a novel in them. Finish

Yours!

<https://apollopad.com>