

Feedback Definition

According to Bennasi and Overson (2014), Feedback in the classroom can be defined as "information allowing a learner to reduce the gap between what is evident currently and what could or should be the case".

Feedback Definition

According to Bennasi and Overson (2014), Feedback in the classroom can be defined as "information allowing a learner to reduce the gap between what is evident currently and what could or should be the case". The British Council states that Feedback is information a teacher or another speaker, including another learner, gives to learners on how well they are doing, either to help the learner improve specific points, or to help plan their learning. Feedback can be immediate, during an activity, or delayed, at the end of an activity or part of a learning programme and can take various forms.

Types of Feedback

Informal feedback Informal feedback can occur at any times as it is something that emerges spontaneously in the moment or during action. Therefore informal feedback requires the building of rapport with students to effectively encourage, coach or guide them in daily management and decision-making for learning.
