defense	was paralyzed and suffered brain
– term	damage. Couch's BAC was 0.24, used by	three times the legal limit in TX. а	He pled guilty to 4 counts of psycho-	manslaughter and a juv ct judge logist	sentenced him to 10 years of probation, defying prosecutors who wanted a 20-year prison sentence. Victims were outraged and critics felt he got special treatment because of his wealth.
	In 2015 a 6-second video on social media appeared to show him at a party where alcohol was served, a parole violation. Two weeks later he and his mother went missing. They were arrested 2 weeks later about 1200 miles away in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, where they had changed their appearances and ditched their identifications. He was returned to the US and his case was moved to adult court.
	He served a 720-day sentence in a TX jail. A psychology expert testified for the defense (presumably at the sentencing) that he suffered from "affluenza" meaning he grew up in a wealthy family that may have left him with psychological afflictions where he was too rich to tell right from wrong. (This is a made-up word by the psychologist and the defense atty.) This case was heavily covered in the news.

Montana	James Egelhoff was tried in ٧.	Montana courts for 2 counts of Egelhoff,	homicide. Egelhoff claimed that 116	extreme intoxication rendered
S.Ct.	him physically incapable of 2013	committing or recalling the (1996)	crimes. Montana state law did not allow Egelhoff's intoxicated condition to be considered by the jury as exonerating him for the crime. Jury conviction by a Montana trial court. Montana SC reversed saying D had a DP right to present all relevant evidence in his defense. The court could not reach a majority on the reasons for its decision (this is not clear in the excerpt in your book). J Antonin Scalia who announced the judgement of the court, declared that Ds do not have an absolute constitutional right to present all relevant evidence in their defense. Here, he notes that "it was firmly established at common law that a D's voluntary intoxication provided neither an "excuse" nor a "justification" for his crimes; the common law's stern rejection of inebriation as a defense must be understood as also precluding a defendant from arguing that, because of his intoxication, he could not have possessed the mens rea necessary to commit the crime."

Key Cases (cont)

Gypsy Rose Blanchard

Case

Gypsy Rose Blanchard was taken by her mother, Dee Dee Blanchard, to countless doctors throughout her childhood and was prescribed medications, surgeries, a wheelchair and oxygen tank, was forced to eat through a feeding tube and her head was shaved even though she did not require any these medical interventions. She was home schooled and separated from others and under her mother's care until she was in her 20's. It is believed that Dee Dee suffered from Munchausen syndrome by proxy (medical child abuse) which is both a mental health diagnosis and a crime. Gypsy pled guilty to second degree murder in 2016 of killing her mother and was released from prison on 12/28/2023. Her boyfriend, who committed the killing, was founds guilty of murder after attempting a diminished capacity defense. The crime is child abuse/neglect, attempted murder, among others, but the theory of the case is Munchausen by Proxy charge.

State v. Montgomery	Montgomery killed Officers Clark and Shelton when in Charlotte,	they were responding to a
2007	call at the Timber Ridge apartment complex in 2007.
	Both officers were shot at close range by Montgomery while walking away from the apt. Death penalty was taken off the table because a CMPD detective "mishandled" his notes. Judge handling the case, Forrest Bridges, is a UNC Charlotte (UNC CH Law) grad. Judge who ruled on the competency hearing, Albert Diaz, is now on the federal bench. Jury returned a verdict of two life sentences (one for each officer) in 2010. Demeatrius Montgoychotic meds while there. Conclusion: "selective and voluntary mutism". Another forensic psychiatrist saw him while he was at Dix Hospital – 7 jail visits with him. Conclusion: paranoid schizophrenia (observations related by family members).

	Another expert in forensic psychology testified that D suffers from a psychotic illness. Last expert in forensic psychiatry testifies D may suffer from paranoid schizophrenia but that he is "selectively mute". NCGS section 15A-1001(a)(2007).
	No evidence that D is unable to understand the nature of the proceedings.

Issue is his mental illness battered woman's syndrome (BWS)	any woman 18 years of age or older, who is or has been in an intimate relationship with a man who repeatedly subjects or subjected ehr to forceful physical and/or psychological abuse.

competent to stand trial	a finding by the court that the defendant has sufficient present ability to consult w/ his/her attorney, and the defendant understands the nature of the proceedings against him/her.
diminished capacity	a defense based on claims of a mental condition that may be insufficient to exonerate a defendant of guilt but that may be relevant to specific mental elements of certain crimes or degrees of crime. Also called diminished responsibility .

but D "has failed to satisfy his burden" on the key questions of whether he suffers from a mental illness and if so whether the illness renders him unable to assist in his defense. udge cites D's behavior showing he understands what's going on: good hygiene and grooming habits, cooperative in taking meds, interaction with family on phone. Judge cites D's "abuse of marijuana laced with formaldehyde" as causing psychosis and his "disorganized thinking" in letters to home. Bottom line of the Court's Order: "I believe it plausible that the D can assist in his defense in a rational or reasonable manner but is simply choosing not to." "It is not the State's burden to prove that D is competent; rather, the burden lies with the D to show otherwise." Legal presumption that all Ds who are charged with a crime are competent to stand trial.
