AはBです

(A is B) は is the particle indicating a topic. Adding です after B forms a predicate. e.g.) 私はアンナです。 (I'm Anna.)

_はどこですか

(Where is _?) どこですか is a phrase that allows you to ask where something is, either a place or thing. e.g.) トイレはどこですか。 (Where is a restroom?)

ます-form verbs

Verbs that end with ます are called "ます-form verbs." The ます-form verbs are used when speaking politely. To make it negative, we change ます to ません. e.g.) 読みます (to read) = 読みま せん (not to read)

Japanese scripts

The Japanese language has three types of scripts, Hiragana (ひらがな), Katakana (カタカナ) and Kanji (漢字), each with its own specific role.

こそあど words

Japanese demonstratives are called こそあど words, taking the first syllables of the demonstratives of the four groups, such as ここ (here), そこ (there), あ そこ (over there), どこ (where).

て-form verbs (2) Variations

ぎ ➡	急ぎます (to hurry) ➡
いで	急いで

In this pattern, you change not only ます but also one syllable before it. The て-form differs depending on the syllable that comes right before ます.

Exception: 行きます (to go) ➡ 行って

Dictionary-form verbs

Japanese dictionaries list verbs in this form. If you use this form, you sound more casual. e.g.) 行きます (to go) = 行く 食べます (to eat) = 食べる

ませんか

(Why don't we _?) If you change ます of ます-form verbs to ませんか, you are inviting people to do something.

e.g.) みんなで本屋に行きます。(We will all go together to the bookstore.) みんなで本屋に行きませんか。 (Why don't we all go together to the bookstore?)

_ましょう
(Let's_)
If you change the ます part of a verb to ましょう, you are
e.g.) ここでおります。(We will get off
here.) ここでおりましょう。(Let's get off here.)

これは何ですか。

(What is this?)

 $\boldsymbol{\mathcal{D}}$ is a particle. When added to the end of a sentence with a rising intonation, it allows you to ask a question. e.g.) それは何ですか。 (What is it?)

あなたは日本人ですか。

(Are you a Japanese?) If the answer is "yes" = はい、私 は日本人です。 If the answer is "no" = いいえ、 私は日本人ではありません。

た-form verbs (cont)

Making た-form verbs is the same as making the て-form of verbs. Simply replace て with た, and で with だ.

て-form verbs (1) Basic pattern

When we use verbs in the middle of sentences, we use their conjugated forms. The conjugated verbs ending with τ or で, are called "て-form verbs." To turn ます-form verbs into τ -form verbs, the basic pattern is just to change ます to τ.

e.g.) 覚えます (to memorize) = 覚えて います is a verb to express the existence of living things, such as people and animals. e.g.) アンナがいます。 (Anna is here.)

います

あります refers to the existence of non-living things.

た-form verbs

The た-form of verbs is the conjugation form of verbs that ends with た or だ. It is for the past or the perfect aspect of verbs. If you use this form, you sound more casual.

e.g.) なれます (to get used to) = なれた (got used to or have got used to) ctives	い		こ	book)

			本 な-	好	(fond	好	(the
adje-	き	of)	き	book
ctives			な	l like)
			本

Adjectives are divided basically into two kinds. Those that end with the syllable い are called い-adjectives. The others are called x-adjectives.

て-form verb+います

(is/are _ing) If you add います to the て-form verb, you can say an action is continuing. e.g.) ご飯を食べます。(I eat/will eat a meal.) ご飯を食べています。(I am eating a meal.)
