

Pronouns - Nominative (Subject)	Pronouns - Accusative (Direct Object)	Pronouns - Dative (Indirect Object)	Pronouns - Genitive (Possession)
I                    ich	Me                    mich	To me                mir	My                    mein
You (informal)    du	You (informal)    dich	To you (informal)  dir	Your (informal)    dein
You (formal)        Sie	You (formal)        Sie	To you (formal)    Ihnen	Your (formal)        Ihr
He/She/It            er/sie/es	Him/Her/It        ihn/sie/es	To him/To her/To it ihm/ihr/ihm	His/Her/Its            sein/ihr/sein
We                    wir	Us                    uns	To us                uns	Our                    unser
You (plural, informal) Sie	You (plural, informal) euch	To you (plural, informal) euch	Your (plural, informal) euer
You (plural, formal) ihr	You (plural, formal) Sie	To you (plural, formal) Ihnen	Your (plural, formal) Ihr
They                    sie	Them                    sie	To them                ihnen	Their                    ihr
All nouns are always capitalized in German. Formal pronouns are also always capitalized.	The accusative case represents who or what the verb directly acts on.	The dative case represents someone/something the action is done "to" or "for".

By Samuel Ogunleke
(SamuelHSSP)

Not published yet.
Last updated 7th November, 2022.
Page 1 of 1.

Sponsored by Readable.com
Measure your website readability!
<https://readable.com>